

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An electronic application for adding multiple logical narrations to a single Electronic Graphical Object is described in which a creator of the Electronic Graphical Object may add both a Public Narration for general audiences and a Private Narration for selected individuals to provide training or additional secure information on the Electronic Graphical Object. The system allows both the creation of the logically different narrations and the control of who can play either of the narrations.